

Lessons learned:

- There is no way to develop TVET without the involvement of business community
- Enterprises need to play more active roles in TVET
- To enhance the cooperation among stakeholders in vocational training, it is necessary to define position, role, duties, responsibilities and benefits of each stakeholder upon their involvement in vocational training
- Dual system is a very good practice model; however, this model will be transferred in an adapt form, based on national conditions and specific sector/occupation
